Lisbon, May 5.

LETTERS from our Army dated at the Mezangana the 2d Instant advise, that marching from Alcantara the 20th of last Month they arriv'd at Coria the 24th, where they found great Quantity of Provisions. The 26th they broke up from thence for Placentia, and arriv'd there the 28th. On their Approach within a League of the Place, the Magistrates and Chapter of the Cathedral came out and met them; and conducted them into the Town with the greatest Demonstrations of Affection for King Charles III. The Duke of Berwick had some Days before endeavour'd to persuade them to make a stand for Philip V; and finding them averse to that Prince, would have destroy'd the Provisions that were in the Place; but the Inhabitants would not suffer it: So he retir'd to Las Ventas Mezangana 5 Leagues from Placentia on the High Road to Madrid, with all his Horse and 10 Battallions that he had drawn out of Badajox, and some Militia; at that Place he posted his Troops, having the small River Mezangana before him, and cast up some Works to defend its Fords; but our Army advancing thither the 1st Instant, they soon attack'd the Enemy with great Courage, passing through the River; forc'd their Intrenchments, and made the Duke of Berwick retire with Precipitation and considerable Loss: Our Army encamp'd on the same Ground where the Enemy lay.
